CANDIDATE FOR THE NOMINATION FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

BEFORE THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY JULY 1,

Will Speak at Hardinsburg, Saturday, June 17th,
At One O'Clock P. M.

BEN JOHNSON DECLARES HIS CHOICE FOR GOV.

Former Candidate For Honor
Gives Expression

Washington, June 8.—William Addams, of Cynthiana, is the unqualified choice of Representative Ben Johnson for the democratic nomination for Governor. The Representative from the Fourth congressional district has not heretofore expressed a choice in the gubernatorial race, and he only consented to do so today when informed that there is much interest among Kentuckians, both residents and visitors here to know who would receive his support.

Mr. Johnson, who is about the busiest man in Washington by reason of his position as chairman of the District of Columbia Committee, was surrounded by a pile of papers and law books, but he consented to break away from his important duties long enough to say a word as to the gubernatorial contest in Kentucky.

"I am unqualifiedly for Mr. Addams. He is a man of sterling worth, not a politician; he has not identified himself with any faction, but stands by the Constitution of the nation and that of the State; and has not given aid or comfort to any movement to discriminate against any one because of any constitutional privilege," said Mr. Johnson. "He is honest, he is capable, he is independent of all rings or cliques and will give the State a splendid administration. Besides these considerations he can win in November and put Kentucky back in the Democratic fold."

MATTINGLY

Favors School Suffrage.

Lexington, Ky., June 7.—William Addams, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, favors school suffrage for women, according to a communication sent by him to Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, of this city, chairman of the legislative committee of the Kentucky Woman's Clubs, which was made public here today. Letters inquiring as to their attitude on this issue were sent to all of the candidates. Mr. Addams is the only candidate so far to declare for woman's suffrage, except Judge O'Rear, who, in a speech before the Woman's Club here several weeks ago, came out squarely for it.

BARKSDALE HAMLETT

EDUCATOR CANDIDATE FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Democratic Party Will Demand as Its Candidate a Man Who is a Practical and Experienced Educator.

The first law of a democracy is the equalization of opportunity, which means the equitable distribution of intelligence through an adequate provision of educational equipment.

There can appear no virtue in the cry of a "Square Deal" so long as there exists a monopoly of intelligence, in a state where society is composed of individuals equally endowed by nature, yet to the great masses of whom all the light of human achievement and the social heritage of truth are denied.

Through a permanently organized campaign for educational improvement, readjusted ideals must be converted into practical realities. Thus will the latent energies of society be set free and opportunity will indeed knock at the door of every home in Kentucky.

His Platform.

I stand specifically for: A school free and accessible to every child in every rural district in Kentucky.

BARKSDALE HAMLETT.

The improvement, sanitation and equipment of our rural schools, in accordance with the best modern standards.

Minimum seven months terms in every district.

A rational and effective compulsory attendance.

Practical course of study; agricultural and the domestic and mechanical arts and sciences.

Good roads and consolidation where practical.

Teachers of scholarship, character and personality.

County high schools, accessibly located in every county.

Improved facilities for the county superintendent's office.

'Every Month'

Liberal enlargement and maintenance of our normal schools and state university as component parts of our public school system.

Readjustment of our system of finance to effect larger results on a more economic basis.

Personal leadership in the field on the part of the state superintendent.

Success Comes Only at End of Effort.

The subject of this sketch is a man of strong individuality, keen mentality, and a broad humanitarian spirit, whose interest in his fellow men is sincere, while his work is always actuated by a desire to advance the cause of education.

He worked in the tobacco patch for the means with which to educate himself, and succeeded to the extent that he was graduated from the Hamden-Sidney College of Virginia, with the Orator's medal of his class, at the age of nineteen. (From E. Polk Johnson's History of Kentucky, in publication.)

Endorsed by Educators and Press.

An ex-president of the Kentucky Educational association, one of its five original incorporators, and up to the present time a member of its board of directors. An ex-president of the Fourth Congressional District association; an ex-state board examiner. Began his career as teacher in Lynnland Academy, Hardin county, taught in the rural district and normal schools, Larnie county; principal of the graded schools of Corydon, and principal of the Henderson high school, from which he came to the superintendency of the Hopkinsville public schools.

The Man For the Place.

Editor T. C. Underwood, president of the Kentucky Press association, in the Hopkinsville News Era.

"The Democratic party could look long and hard without finding a worthier or more competent candidate for the important office of state superintendent of schools. Mr. Hamlett is a man who has always 'made good,' and his career has been a lesson of energy, perseverance and honor. The State has no more enthusiastic and effective an advocate of education, nor the Democratic party a more loyal supporter."

A Builder of Schools.

In another issue he has this to say:

"When Prof. Hamlett came to Hopkinsville, from Henderson, six years ago, as superintendent of the public schools, there were but two buildings. With the completion this year of the high school building, there will be six, at a cost of $200,000, and the faculty of twenty-three teachers has been increased to forty-six. He is an orator of ability and in demand as an after-dinner speaker. He is a popular member of the Elks, W. O. W. and other fraternal organizations. Prof. Hamlett is also superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, one of the largest in the state."

A Leader in Progressive Movement.

Prof. Hamlett, though only thirty-two years of age, has had thirteen years of successful experience as a teacher, rising by rapid promotions from teacher of a small county school at $30 a month to the splendid position he now holds at the head of the Hopkinsville school system, with more than 2,500 pupils and 40 teachers under his superintendency. Under his direction the schools have been improved from year to year, until they are more than ever the pride of one of the most progressive cities of the state.

A clean, young and progressive teacher, who has all the elements of success in his make-up he is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would justly be proud.

A leader in every progressive movement, Barksdale Hamlett will help to redeem Kentucky in 1911, and will be the next superintendent of Public Instruction. (Mayor Chas. M. Meacham in the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.)

Master of School Problems.

From study and experience, he is master of the school problems of Kentucky and is particularly interested in the improvement of the common schools. The News knows no Democrat, so thoroughly equipped at all points to make an ideal state superintendent, to advance the school interests proper of Kentucky, as Prof. Hamlett, and we would like to see him given the nomination without opposition. (Elizabethtown News.)

Friend to the Rural Schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong, intelligent friend to the cause of education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most intelligent city in the country. He is certainly a friend to the common schools, believes in seven months' terms, good roads and improved facilities for our schools in every respect. (Mayfield Messenger.)

Strong Acquisition to the State Ticket.

Prof. Hamlett is in the foremost rank of Kentucky's educators and is in every way thoroughly qualified for the honor he seeks. We predict a successful candidacy for him and believe he will be a strong acquisition to the next state ticket. (Madisonville Journal.)

Solid Backing of Home People.

Hamlett stands at the very top among the educators of our state. His friends predict with all candor that he will go into the fight with the solid backing not only of his home county, but the entire second congressional district. (Daily Leader, Fulton.)

An Ideal Superintendent.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, is the most advanced, intelligent and capable man in the state for superintendent of public instruction. He knows the needs of the state in all educational matters and would make an ideal state superintendent of public instruction. (H. A. Summers in The Elizabethtown News.)

Prof. Hamlett possesses all the qualifications to make the state an ideal superintendency. (Cadiz Record.)

The Man of the Hour.

As he is seen by the Ballard County Yeoman:

"The most casual reader can see in him the man of the hour, the man in whom all people of all parties can graciously unite and work for. His whole life, his every energy, his wonderful brain power are wrapped in this, the greatest work to be done in Kentucky. Though young, he is undoubtedly the best equipped man for this office the state has ever produced."

Determination and Success in His Face

A young man who seems to have an ambition to accomplish something worth while in the educational field, and judging from that determined expression in his frank open countenance, he is going to succeed in the undertaking. (Daily Bulletin, Mayville.)

A Worthy and Competent Leader.

His work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He is abundant.

THE PAXTINE TOILET CO., Boston, Mass.

antly qualified for the high office which he seeks, and his broad platform embraces the very best in educational endeavor. He is a worthy man in every respect, having worked himself up from a poor boy. Already he has pledged to him almost the solid vote of the teachers of the state, and all interested in the improvement and advancement of Kentucky's educational facilities, see in him a worthy and competent leader for the accomplishment of those things. (Hartford Herald.)

Successful in Great Undertakings.

He is eminently qualified for the position which he seeks, and his record as an educator has been one of uninterrupted success. It is due to him that the handsome new Christian county and Hopkinsville high school is now a permanent reality, having been erected under the Sullivan law, at a cost of $100,000. (The News-Democrat, Paducah.)

We believe as state superintendent of public instruction, he would be the right man in the right place. (Calloway County Gazette.)

Mr. Hamlett believes in the equalization of opportunities, and his greatest wish in his work is to make opportunity knock at the home of every school child in Kentucky. We like Mr. Hamlett, and unlike most politicians he improves on acquaintance. In fact, he is not a politician, he is a school man who is well equipped for the office. (The Breckinridge News, Cloverport.)

Making a Fine Race.

He is a man of infinite ability and capacity and stands upon a platform that neither trims nor tergiversates; that begs no question nor evades a single issue. Mr. Hamlett, a man of individuality and ability, an educator and orator, is conceded to be the logical man for the place and is endorsed by leading educators and the press. Prof. Hamlett is out for the Democratic nomination and is making a vigorous canvass; he stands for progression and has the unqualified endorsement of his home people.

He has the credentials of a sturdy Democrat and bears the highest qualifications of an ideal superintendent.

Eminently qualified for the position sought, we believe him to be "the man" for superintendent of our state schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong friend to the cause of advanced education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most progressive city in the country. He is a friend to the common schools of the state, is a clean, sound and energetic teacher who has all the elements of success in his make-up and is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would be justly proud.

It is hoped that Mr. Hamlett will have no opposition before the Democratic primary, for he is so thoroughly Democratic and clean in his views, so well equipped from all angles, that antagonism would be almost unjustifiable.

Mr. Hamlett has given a good account of himself, and his work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He has made more than good there and can make good at the head of Kentucky's school affairs. If you want to know what Barksdale Hamlett stands for, just follow carefully the creed of the man as promulgated by himself. (Henderson Journal.)

In the Lead.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, continues in the lead for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Schools. His superior qualifications for the office give him a decided advantage over both his opponents, who are not active school men. The people of the State are awakening to the fact that to elect a lawyer to the agricultural department or a farmer to the superintendency of schools would be sheer folly, and they are lining up in this section at least for Mr. Hamlett mainly because he is an eminent, active educator and has made a success in his chosen line of work. ## Womanly Wisdom

Now joyously, fair Jane we greet,
Long parting makes her coming sweet;
And, in her name, each soul drinks up
Delicious drafts from beauty's cup.

Strawberries and roses—hurray! It's fun to be alive these days.

Needles are small and easily lost, but just secure a small bottle to keep them in and you will not be bothered that way any more.

For five cents you can get a brush that will help wash the vegetables for the table, before cooking. Saves wear and tear on the hands.

For variety cook some little white onions with the green peas. Fresh peas need no flavor but their own, but if not perfectly fresh the onions improve them.

When putting away your furs and woolens for the summer, brush them thoroughly and air them, then sprinkle them liberally with black pepper to preserve from moths. There is no disagreeable odor and the pepper is usefully on hand.

Strawberry jam: Pour a cupful of red currant juice over two pounds of granulated sugar and let it stand for twenty minutes, while you boil over a slow fire two pounds of mashed strawberries, stirring constantly. Add the sugar and currant juice and simmer for half an hour; skim, and when cold seal in tumblers with paraffine.

It is a waste of good material not to make pea soup every time you have peas for dinner. When they are boiled much of their value is left in the water and when this is thrown away you do not get more than half of the good of them, and soup is always a good beginning for a dinner. To make it after the peas are shelled wash the shells and put them to cook in cold water that does not more than cover them. Let them simmer a while till they look "faded," then throw them away and put the peas to boil in the same water. When done, dish them as usual. They are improved by the additional flavor given by the hulls.
Then add some good milk to the water and thicken it slightly with about a tablespoonful each of butter and flour rubbed to a paste, and season with salt and pepper. When peas are too old to be good, use them to thicken the soup by putting them through a colander. It is true of any boiled vegetables that much of its value stays in the water in which it was cooked; and any one of them can be made into soup in the same manner as the peas.—From Home

Why Editors Get Rich

After long and careful research, much reflection and prayerful consideration, a great deal of worry and study
we have at last figured out how so many country editors get rich. Here is the secret to their success. There is a child born in the neighborhood. The attending physician gets $10. The editor gives the loud-lunged youngster a great send off and gets $0. It is christened, and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $0. It grows and marries. The editor publishes another long winded, flowery article and tells a dozen lies about "the beautiful and accomplished bride." The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake. The editor gets $0.00 and a request to carry the grooms subscription account another year. In the course of time she dies. The doctor gets from $5 to $100. The editor publishes a notice of her death and an obituary two columns long, lodge resolutions, a lot of poetry, and a card of thanks and gets $0.00. No wonder so many country editors get rich.—Exchange.

For Governor.

We are authorized to announce JAS. B. McCREARY as a candidate for Governor of Kentucky subject to the action of the Democratic primary election May 27.

FORCING THE VOTER.

A shrewd man is Erasmus Brainard, editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. A recent view of his, expressed in conversation, interested us a good deal. He found it surprising how few forms of government man has devised. There have not been many that would not come under the Aristotelian grouping of two thousand years ago—good and bad government by one, by few, by many; tyranny, monarchy; aristocracy, oligarchy; republic, democracy. The United States began as an aristocratic republic under the influence of Hamilton. Today it would be difficult to say whether it is nearest to plutocracy or to democracy. Mr. Brainard favors the trial of pure democracy as a form of government, because so many of the Hamiltonian ideas have either become outworn or have failed. The direct primary, the initiative, the referendum, and the recall, are not perfect—no governmental method is—but the minor defects are the ones you hear magnified. The real danger to successful democracy Mr. Brainard, like many others, finds in the failure of voters to vote, and the possible relegation, thereby, of power to an oligarchy, and this danger he believes can be met by a system of penalties. The Belgian law remits a small tax to the man who votes. It not only imposes this tax on the non-voter, but also disfranchises him for a time. What do you think of the idea?—Collier's Weekly.

On one acre of meadow land, newly plowed, a Massachusetts man produced 123 bushels of dry shelled corn, says the Green Isle Record of Minnesota. To do this he spread upon the acre 25 tons of stable manure and 250 pounds of commercial fertilizer. It has not been shown that the soil and climate of Massachusetts are one bit better adapted to corn than those of Minnesota. From rock-ribbed New Hampshire comes the story of a farmer named Cram, who has harvested 80 bushels of shelled corn per acre at a cost per bushel of 25 cents. Against this is placed the statement of "an extensive Iowa corn grower," that his 40-bushel-an-acre crop cost him a little more than 40 cents per bushel. Evidently those Yankees are setting a pace in corn growing—now that they have awakened to the value of scientific farming—which the "Kings of the Corn Belt" can attain only by adopting similar methods.

They have no better corn lands in Massachusetts than they have in Breckenridge county. What was done on an acre of Massachusetts land can be done on an acre of land in Breckenridge county if the same methods are applied. We've got to get down to scientific farming in this county if we hope to compete with our New England and Western farmers. Why don't some farmer in Breckenridge county try just one acre, using the same methods as the Massachusetts man as an experiment?

The Hon. E. J. McDermott, candidate for the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, will speak at Hardinsburg next Saturday at 1 o'clock p. m. Col. McDermott is a statesman and an orator and a true blue Democrat. It will do you good to hear him.

Every voter, especially Democrats, should read Mr. Hamlett's platform published in this impression of the News. As to his ability to carry out promises, read what his home papers say. Mr. Hamlett will make an ideal Superintendent.

Father Kanne says his good road work is progressing rapidly. All the people are lending a helping hand and doing good work. It is no trouble to build good roads when all the people are interested and willing.

Smart Bros. shipped a Poland China gilt, seven months old, to H. R. Blythe, Lynchburg, Tenn., last week; price $20. One male pig to Conrad Simons, Tobinsport, Ind., and one to Abe Ricketts.

If Mr. Addams is gaining votes all over the State like he is in Breckenridge county, he will certainly land the nomination.

With the advent of warm weather comes foot troubles to thousands of people. The increased temperature and heaviness of the atmosphere causes swelling and excess perspiration. This brings on a series of foot troubles. The treatment given below will be welcomed with joy by an army of sufferers. It acts like magic. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts.
 Less time will not give the desired results.) Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent." All sore-ness disappears immediately. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off.
 Bunions are reduced to normal and the inflammation drawn out. Sweaty and smelly feet, tender and swollen feet need but a few treatments. This Calocide is a remarkable drug. Formerly used only by doctors but any druggist now has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is claimed to cure the worst feet.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE
Cloverport People Should Learn
To Detect The Approach Of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys ex-crete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding.
 The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy.
 Bright's disease or gravel. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Clover-port proof:

John H. Wills, Judge of police court,
 High St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "I have no hesitation in pronouncing Doan's Kidney Pills the best remedy to be had for kidney disorders. I take pleasure in recommending them to all persons afflicted with this trouble. I will be pleased to answer questions about Doan's Kidney Pills at any time."

CONVENTIONS IN MUSIC.

Rules Which Song Composers Seem to Feel They Must Follow.

Why is it that all our musicians in writing a nautical song invariably use a portion of the best known homopie
 as the introduction, "ramp," or counter-melody? Why do the open fifths in the bass always appear in rustic songs? Because it can't be helped, it seems. Our popular Irish songs always have a bar or two of a well known old Irish melody or a drone bass, otherwise they wouldn't be Irish.
 The exhausted old Turkey and his partner, the straw, come to the rescue of every "rube" song or dance that is perpetrated, and our national airs must run all through the accompaniment of patriotic songs to give them
 "flavor."

Because all of these things are "set"
 they are conventions. Why must every song end on the tonic note, with the preceding tone either the second or seventh of the scale, unless we except the detestable third or the hollow fifth? Because our audiences expect it.

Should one of your composers in a moment of bravery or recklessness produce a score in which he disregarded these many conventions his first night hearers would go away remarking that the music was crazy. They do not realize that they expect to hear the same old thing, served up a trifle differently, of course, but still the same.—From "Where Have I Heard That Tune Before?" in Metropolitan Magazine.

The Knight of the Silver Star

A Romance of Drussenland

CHAPTER XXI.

EXCEPT that for many hours a day I sat in a gloomy twilight, I was well treated. I was well fed and was allowed to walk for a certain time each day upon the ramparts—well guarded, of course.

I had hoped to catch a glimpse of Daria during my daily constitutional, but the hope was not fulfilled. I think it is possible that Costa might have so arranged matters as to grant me this request had I asked him, but I dared not do so. Her beauty might save her. My love might condemn her. So I led Costa to believe that she was no more to me than any other woman.

In my lonely hours I was not idle. I examined my cell, its floors and its walls and the locked trap in the corner. The walls and the floor were hopeless. Such solid masonry would yield but slowly to a company of men with all appliances at hand. But the trap attracted me. It was a way out I knew, even if it were only dead men who took it. I wonder how often and how long I have stood gazing at the trap, fascinated by the thoughts it gave rise to.

I lost count of time. Days and nights passed, and I knew that I had been a prisoner for a long while. An imaginative man might have hoped that he had been forgotten. I knew my enemies too well to think so, and Costa was constantly advising me regarding the future. He seemed to enjoy sitting in my cell, and if his conversation was not of the most consoling kind it helped to pass some weary hours. I have never been able to make up my mind what the Spaniard's true feelings toward me were, whether he had some sort of respect for me or whether it delighted him to speak of the gruesome tortures which were in store for me.

He came one evening late—later than was his wont—and with him came O'Ryan. My quondam friend had evidently recovered, for he walked vigorously, and his arm looked capable of wielding a good sword again.

"It is tomorrow," said Costa, fixing the torch in the ring in the wall.

"What is tomorrow?"

"Your trial. We are just in Yadasara. We give a man a trial—generally. It seems to me a useless waste of time. It comes to the same thing in the end."

I thought this quite probable.

"Shall I be allowed to speak?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, but it would be well to have a care what you say, eh, captain?"

Thus directly appealed to, O'Ryan, who had stood silently with folded arms, burst out laughing.

"I might say too much to please that rascally companion of yours, is that it?" I asked Costa, nodding contemptuously toward O'Ryan.

"Rascally!" exclaimed the Irishman excitedly.

"Steady," Costa interposed. "You will doubtless have the pleasure of witnessing your enemy's discomfiture, but it is not for you to administer the punishment."

The city turned out to see me on the morrow when I was taken from the fortress to the palace. The king was surrounded by his court and was talking and laughing with those about him. A callous assembly it was to try a man for his life! At a little distance from me stood Daria, very pale and very beautiful. Had my courage faltered for a moment the sight of her, firm, resolute and fearless, would have filled me with new strength. To her I bowed; to the king I made no obeisance. Near the king sat Count Vasca and next to the count Lady Aldrida. The count was pale—perhaps by reason of his recent wounds. Lady Aldrida looked as if she proceeded thoroughly amused her. How different some Christian laws are to obey! How could I help hating this woman and this man?

"I AM NO TRAITOR."

Then the smiles went from the king's face, and those around him were silent.

"Madame," he said, turning to Daria, "there is little need for us to tell you of what you are accused. In Drussenland there cannot be two rulers. It has pleased you to set yourself up against your rightful king and with the help of traitors to their king and their country to defy us for this long season, bringing war where peace should be. At your door lie in heaps the men who have fallen in defense of their country, and their blood cries to us to be avenged. Are there any words that can say aught in your defense? If so, speak them. This court shall judge you, not we, and truly your fair face should find many a one to deal out lenient judgment."

"I am no traitor."

The words came firm and clear, no suspicion of trembling in her voice. She was as much a queen now as when I had first seen her, surrounded by her knights.

"I stand here princess of Drussenland," she said. "The fortune of war places me here standing, while the real traitor remains seated in my presence. You, who call yourself the king, are no king, nor are you established here in Yadasara by the will of true Drussenlanders. You are king only by the help of these paid foreigners, whose very names and country are unknown to you. For the judgment of your court I care nothing."

"We shall find means to subdue that bold spirit within you, madame," said the king.

"To kill it, not to subdue it," she answered.

"So have many spoken. Words come easily. But let us argue a little, madame. In your accusations be just. We are not all foreigners. Am I not a Drussenlander?"

"One I should have delighted to honor had you been true to your country and your sovereign," was the answer.

I expected to see the king become savage, but he astonished me by laughing heartily. There was something of our own Charles II about this monarch. If an answer were ready enough he could appropriate it, even if it were against himself.

"See what we have lost. By being a king we forego the happiness of being honored by a queen. What will you say then, madame, of Count Vasca? Surely he is a true Drussenlander since he is your kinsman?"

"There are no words fitting. You and your assumption of majesty I can understand. You have fought me face to face, a determined struggle in which you have won. It was treachery, indeed, but it was treachery open to the sun. If treachery can be honest, yours was. But for the man who hides his treachery behind a smile, who works in secret to destroy those he professes to honor, for the false friend, the coward who dare not be an open enemy, there are no words. Gather all the scoundrels there are in Drussenland together, take from each one the meanest trait he has, and of these traits build you up a man. Even then shall you have a man I would rather claim kindred with than with Count Vasca."

"It seems you are a dangerous friend," said the king, turning to him. "Your majesty has not found me so."

"True. You see, madame, it is well sometimes to use similar weapons to those used by an adversary. If your enemy sends a spy we, too, must do the same or our ignorance may lose us the day. Count Vasca has received harsh language from your lips. What have you to say to your knight there? True, he was faithful to you, but he is just. He is a spy. By a lie he entered Yadasara. He betrayed his friend, one Captain O'Ryan, who is with us to bear witness against him. More—he attempted to kill him. What harsh words have you for that man there?"

The king's finger, pointed at me, caused all eyes to turn toward me; Daria's also.

"Gather the best in Drussenland," she said slowly. "Take what is bravest, truest, from them all and make me a man. A great Drussenlander indeed would he be, yet head and shoulders over him would rise Sir Verrall—Clinton Verrall—my knight of the Silver Star."

For some moments there was silence, and no voice was raised to sneer at the character which had been given me.

"You have a powerful advocate, Sir Knight," said the king presently, "but there is another side to the question which condemns you deeply."

"I am not worthy either of such high praise, your majesty, or such deep condemnation."

"You are modest as well as valiant, it would seem."

"I lay claim to being no honest gentleman. The world holds no higher distinction."

"Do honest men lie?" he asked severely. "You did, else had you not entered Yadasara the first time."

"Pardon, your highness. It was Captain O'Ryan who gave certain accounts of me, which satisfied you. In truth, my coming to the city was in the nature of a flight from my enemies."

I was not disposed to spare O'Ryan. Why should I be?

"A valiant knight does not flee from his enemies," said the king.

"I fled from a would-be assassin—Count Vasca."

"Truly, count, you have grievous charges laid against you."

"Who would believe the word of a spy?" said the count savagely.

"That is well spoken, Sir Knight. A spy! What say you to that?"

"Even what your majesty said just now. It is wise to handle similar weapons to those used by an enemy. In the princess' camp there was not one spy, but a hundred. Ever since I came to Drussenland Count Vasca and his friends have been working to betray the princess. She had not been here now to hear your judgment had not that scoundrel turned against her in the day of battle, sending a long season of treachery by a crime that any man must revolt at, that your majesty must hate."

"You are here to defend yourself, Sir Knight, not to accuse our friends."

"I have no defense," I answered.

"I have fought for the princess I serve. I have done what a man can do, and my conscience acquits me. But I have a word for your majesty. If you will give me leave."

"Are words from such a man worth your majesty's attention?" said Vasca.

"When this man came to Drussenland he made great promises. He spoke boastfully that he would place the princess on the throne in Yadasara, that he would find the treasure which is said to be hidden in this land. This man has accused me of treachery, but my deepest sin has been in throwing in my lot with wiser men rather than be carried away by the boastful promises of a deceiver."

"That is not all your sin, Count Vasca," I said. "Your majesty has accepted the friendship of a man who, while he flatters upon you, is plotting your ruin."

The count laughed contemptuously.

"The proof," said the king, rising from his chair.

"Captain O'Ryan can give it you."

"The count spoke wisely when he said that your words were not worth our attention. We have heard that story from Captain O'Ryan's lips. The captain has confessed that he was in error. His zeal for our safety and some personal dislike to the count, fostered by yourself, Sir Knight, made him hasty in his judgment. Their hands have met in confession and forgiveness. Is this all you have to say?"

"One man's word against another's is poor security for truth," I answered.

"I would that I could prove the truth of my words at the sword's point with the count, with O'Ryan or any other man who doubts me."

"Enough, enough!" cried the king. "Take him back to the fortress. At our pleasure he shall take back his lies and perchance tell some secret of this treasure. There are hard questioners in the fortress, as you will find."

"They must be hard indeed to wring from me one good word for the villain beside your majesty."

"They have drawn out a confession of love for a man's worst enemy before now," said the king.

"Death puts an end to all questions," I answered. "In my country men fear not death if met in an honest cause. I claim no pity. I cry for no mercy."

yet I would ask one favor of your majesty."

"What favor?"

"Let me pay the penalty for myself and for this lady."

Daria made one step toward the king.

"I pray you not to listen to the knight."

"Truly, madame, his own sins are heavy enough to answer for. It seems, count, that your rival as well as your accuser stands before us."

"Not my rival, your majesty," and Vasca laid his hand on Aldrida's arm.

"We have no favors to grant," said the king. "Take them to the fortress."

"TAKE THEM TO THE FORTRESS. THEY SHALL BOTH DIE."

We will appoint a day for the questioning. They shall both die. So valiant a knight and so fair a lady are too dangerous to live in Drussenland."

Daria made an effort to come to me, but the soldiers stopped her, and she was led from the hall. I heard Lady Aldrida laugh a merry, musical peal as I was taken away. I almost wished that I had killed her that night in the city.

VARIED HIS VIEWS.

A Broad Minded Candidate and a Patient Constituent.

Farmer Gordon was engaged for a fortnight to drive a political candidate about the county in his buggy. They traveled by day, each town being a stage, and the politician spoke every evening.

The man was honest and well meaning, but careful local partisans had tried the temper of each community in advance and reported to him with suggestions. So it happened that from his extreme anxiety to please his expressed conviction on the issue varied considerably from time to time.

"Well, Mr. Gordon," said the candidate one day at the beginning of the

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root— if you do you will be disappointed.

second week. "How do you stand on the election? How are you going to vote?"

The farmer was silent, thinking. "I really don't know," he said. "I can tell better, maybe, at the close of our engagement."

"Can't make up your mind yet? You've heard all of my speeches."

"Yes, and I like you personally, and I'm hoping to get to vote for you. Don't worry—at least, not yet."

"Not yet! Why do you say that?" asked the puzzled candidate.

"Well, you've had several points of view, and I'm just waiting and thinking maybe before the end of the week you'll get round to mine too."—Youth's Companion.

Artificial Leather.

Coincident with that rise in the price of meat of late years which falls so heavily on the domestic economy of the average household, we note a rise in the price of leather, which is even a severer burden on the working man, since available substitutes for the latter product of the range are at once scarcer and more needed. It is encouraging, therefore, to learn that the efforts of the inventor to produce such substitutes have of late been crowned with remarkable success.

A prize of 5000 francs has just been awarded by an agricultural committee of Terni to a Belgian inventor, Louis Gevaert, of Beveren-les-Audearde, for an unusually superior artificial leather.

The process, patented in 1907, and perfected by successive steps, consists in the more or less intimate impregnation of stout cotton cloth with tannic albuminoid substances. Shoes made of this are said to possess not only the resistance and elasticity of natural leather, but its durability of wear. Moreover, they are much cheaper, costing, including manufacture, only about 4 francs, and being sold at about 6 francs per pair.—Scientific American.

TO BREEDERS AND SHIPPERS OF SHEEP

Shippers of sheep and lambs must furnish me name of PARTY from whom lambs are purchased, giving ADDRESS and NUMBER purchased from each breeder, and I will issue certificate which must be presented to Railroad agent and attached to bill of lading before railroad company will move them. Shippers must NOT wait until you are ready to ship before applying for certificate. Reserve this notice for future use. Parties owning sheep that have not been inspected may dip them at once, writing me number of sheep and lambs dipped, and I will inspect them in railroad loading pens, if you sell before I can get to inspect them on your farms. Sheep that you want to move before I can get to you to inspect them, must be dipped upon farms where now located before moving them. Shippers will ascertain from owners as to whether sheep have been inspected and dipped before buying them. Shippers writing for certificates for shipments of sheep and breeders writing for information must enclose STAMP for reply.
